HISTORIES OF PARIS
HISTORY, SOCIOLOGY, URBAN STUDIES 111
Instructor: Christina von Koehler, M.Phil.

COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course examines how the history of political ideology and social conflict in France since the Middle Ages has been embodied in the urban landscape of Paris. More than in any other city, the meaning, message, and significance to state and nation of most Parisian sites was—and continues to be—violently contested. We will look at the histories of the conception, construction, and public perception of Parisian monuments and place their stories within the larger context of the development of the French state and of French national identity. Major events of French history form the chronological backbone for this course, with emphasis placed on the forces that literally shaped some of the city’s most emblematic neighborhoods and monuments. The readings are selected from works by specialists in French political, urban, and social history; and the class will include weekly visits to sites in Paris, as the student learns to “read” architecture and to use the city as a rich primary source for historical analysis.

While no prior knowledge of French history is required, a high level of commitment to learning about France is. All of the writing for this course demands careful consideration of both readings for class and information given during site visits. This is a course that engages in the complex history of Paris and France. Students will be evaluated on the richness and clarity of their engagement with that history.

COURSE INFORMATION

Language of Instruction: English
UC Quarter/Semester Credits: 5/3.33

Course Duration (weeks): 15 weeks

COURSE MATERIALS
Course Reader [CR] Texts on Reserve in UC Study Center: English-language booklets [itinéraire] The Pantheon; The Arch of Triumph; The Palais Garnier; The Eiffel Tower

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Gain an understanding of Paris’s history.
- Students will be provided with the tools to understand and align historical moments and their attendant political and social contexts with the physical monuments that populate the contemporary Parisian urban landscape.
- Students will be presented techniques to read visual evidence through in-class analysis of things like the deciphering, during “off-site visits,” of political messages embedded in the iconography of monuments’ façades.
- Develop skills to critically reflect on the various ways history is or can be written.
- Develop skills to construct an effective argument, with a strong thesis and well-chosen evidence, as well as coherent organization and attention to style.

PREREQUISITES

There are no prerequisites for this course.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Lectures & Site Visits
Class meetings will last 1.5 hours per session. Class time will be divided between lectures and group discussions in which active student participation is required. Students are expected to read the material assigned for each class and be prepared to discuss the material.

In addition, students will meet for weekly site visits:

- Louvre
- The Panthéon
- L’Arc de Triomphe
- Le Musée de la vie Romantique
- Palais Garnier
- Sacré-Cœur
- The Grand Palais and the grounds of the 1900 World’s Fair
- Musée de l’art et de l’histoire du judaïsme
- Les Halles
- Père Lachaise Cemetery

Class Participation
Attendance and active participation are required. Students are expected to do the readings assigned for each class meeting beforehand, and to actively participate in class discussions.

Written Assessment – 2 Monument Analysis Essays
Critical thought and analytical writing are fundamental components of the course and the final grade. Students will submit two short monument analysis essays, 2-3 pages each, relating this analysis to the assigned course material; students must make the connections between 1) the lecture 2) a particular site visit, and 3) the readings.

Essays must focus on a theme. They should not be a dry summary of “then we did this, then we saw that.” Nor should they be called “paper #1.” A descriptive title is required. Creativity is welcome, as is comparison between France and other countries. Students’ work will be evaluated in terms of cohesiveness, logic, and originality. A good point of departure is the subject headings in the syllabus, or a line from one of the readings... Essays should make connections between multiple sources: readings, visits, and students’ lives.

Essays will be 2-3 pages long and will include a title, introduction, main body, and conclusion. Essays must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Written Assessment – The Invalides “Scavenger Hunt” Group Project
Groups of 3-4 classmates will visit, outside of class time, one of the most symbolic sites in Paris. Students will be asked to photograph and decipher the manner in which later regimes staged Napoleon’s tomb. A list of questions to consider will be distributed in class.

The project will be 6-10 pages long, including photographs. The project involves decrypting all the images and iconography that the group has photographed on site. Each of the three sections of this project requires describing and then explicating how the students’ understanding of the past has deepened by 1) demonstrating that the group is able to determine the precise historical context during which the Invalides was first constructed 2) analyzing the physical changes employed to repurpose the site in the 19th century 3) reflecting upon how meaning is reinforced (or not) by such visual cues today. The students are themselves responsible as to how they coordinate dividing up the tasks of seeing and writing. The project must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. Photographs may be either integrated into the main text or printed separately as an appendix. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Written Assessment – Synecdoche Project Essay
The synecdoche project essay will be 4-6 pages in length and will require students to use the knowledge they have acquired of Paris’s history, along with their imagination, to select an object and to compose an essay on its status as a monument.

A synecdoche is a figure of speech where a part serves to represent the whole, and this term could be applied to all Parisian monuments. But just what is a monument? Does it have to be a huge structure, or could it be an old machine preserved on a pedestal, a tiny painting, or the fragments of a statue?

Students select one display/object at a small museum in Paris, but not from one we have visited as a class. This essay requires students to describe the object and to identify it as an example of material culture in the larger historical and physical context of Paris. To do so, an investigation into the object’s origins to discover why it was preserved may be appropriate. Students may also approach this essay by using their knowledge of the city’s history, what they have gleaned from the course reader and Horne, as well as their imagination and investigative skills, to demonstrate how this “monument” enhances our understanding of a particular era or episode in the story of Paris.

Essays will be 4-6 pages long and will include a title, introduction, main body, and conclusion. Essays must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Midterm Exam and Final Exam
The midterm and final exams aim at evaluating the students’ understanding of the readings, lectures, visits and class discussions as well as the students’ development of their critical thinking skills. Both the midterm and final exams will cover the material read and discussed in class up to the date of the exam. The exams test students on their ability to effectively synthesize what they have encountered in terms of the course’s major themes. Students will be required to compose their ideas in essay form and in a manner that addresses the topic as it relates to course content.
ASSESSMENT AND GRADING CRITERIA

The course will be graded on a 100-point scale, and the final grade will be determined as follows:

- Class Participation 15%
- Monument Analysis Essay 1 10%
- Monument Analysis Essay 2 15%
- Group Invalides Project Essay 10%
- Synecdoche Project Essay 15%
- Midterm Exam 15%
- Final Exam 20%

The numerical average will correspond to the following degrees of competence:

- 90 – 100 Outstanding degree of competence
- 80 – 89 Good degree of competence
- 70 – 79 Adequate degree of competence
- 60 – 69 Basic degree of competence
- 0 – 59 Failure to demonstrate a basic degree of competence
FOOD & DINING IN FRENCH ART: FROM THE EARLY MODERN PERIOD TO THE PRESENT
ANTHROPOLOGY, ART HISTORY, HISTORY 126
Instructor: Amanda Herold, Ph.D.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Food as a theme has been present in art since prehistoric times. Beyond their aesthetic qualities, representations of food and dining reveal social, religious, economic, historical, and scientific beliefs and practices present in the cultures in which they are created. France has long been esteemed for both its art and its gastronomy—in 2010, UNESCO added the "Gastronomic meal of the French" to its Representative list of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity. This course aims to combine these two creative domains by exploring the place of food and dining in French art, with a focus on the modern and contemporary periods.

We will begin by studying and decoding the archetypal representations of succulent food still life and genre painting created in prosperous 16th-17th century Holland, which establish the conventions of the genre for centuries to come. We will then examine the rise of these previously minor and undervalued artistic genres in 18th century France, thanks to figures such as Jean-Baptiste Siméon Chardin, whose celebrated food still life paintings coincide with the birth of French gastronomy during the reign of Louis XV. We will next explore how frivolous depictions of aristocrats wining, dining and indulging in exotic beverages like coffee and hot chocolate give way in post-Revolutionary, 19th century France to visions of austerity and "real life", featuring potato-eating peasants who toil in the fields to produce the bounty of the harvest.

Our focus will then shift to representations of food and dining in the age of modernity, when Paris was the undisputed capital of art, luxury, haute cuisine and innovation. We will analyze how Impressionist picnics and café scenes transgress social and artistic codes, shedding light on the tenets of modern life and art, and how, building on their momentum, Paul Cézanne launches an aesthetic revolution with an apple. Paul Gauguin’s depictions of mangoes and guavas speak to his quest for new, “exotic” sources of inspiration, and will allow us to discuss questions of race and French colonialist discourse.

Drawing from these pictorial and social innovations, we will subsequently observe the place of food and dining themes in the rapid succession of avant-garde movements that emerge in early 20th century Paris, whose defiance of conventional society and art lead them to transform these previously comforting and pleasant themes into troubling “anti-diets”. This will lead us to question the place of food—or its absence— in art to capture the suffering and violence of 20th century upheavals like the Second World War.

We will conclude our study with the place of food and dining in contemporary art, beginning with the Pop Art movement which further elevates the quotidien while calling into question postwar consumer society and art through its representations of industrialized, mass-produced food. We will then explore how contemporary creators in a plural and globalized art scene use these traditional themes to challenge and redefine the status and roles of the artist, the spectator, and the work of art itself, as food becomes an artistic material, the remains of a meal become a tableau, artist becomes restaurateur and the focus shifts to the inedible. Finally, we will explore how depictions of food in visual art grapple with multiculturalism in French contemporary society.

Throughout the course, representations of food and dining will be studied as a means to survey the evolution of French art, and as significant markers of social, ethnic and cultural identity. Our analysis of these depictions will also provide the opportunity to learn about dietary and dining customs, habits and beliefs prevalent in France from the early modern period to the present.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Through the close study of selected artwork in class and in Parisian museums, students will learn to decrypt the images that surround them, in museums, media and everyday life.
- Students will familiarize themselves with major artistic currents from the 17th century to the present, and their manifestations in various supports and spaces.
- Students will come to understand food and dining’s evolving representation over time in relation to significant shifts in French and European society.

Last Updated October 2019
Students will acquire basic historical notions around French dining and dietary customs, habits and beliefs from the 17th century to the present.

PREREQUISITES
There are no prerequisites for this course.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Lectures & Site Visits
Class meetings will last 1.5 hours per session. Class time will be divided between lectures and group discussions in which active student participation is required. Students are expected to read and view the material assigned for each class and be prepared to discuss the study questions given by the instructor for each reading.

In addition, students will meet for study visits/walking tours weekly or biweekly:

- Week 2: Musée du Louvre
- Week 3: Musée du Louvre
- Week 4: Musée d'Orsay
- Week 5: Musée d'Orsay
- Week 6: Musée de l'Orangerie
- Week 8: Musée de Montmartre
- Week 10: Centre Pompidou
- Week 12: Centre Pompidou

Written Assessments
Critical thought and analytical writing are fundamental components of the course and the final grade. Students will submit two 2-page assignments. The format of these assignments will be the thorough analysis of a work of art, related to an assigned historical period or theme, according to the methodology presented in class, and rooted in content covered in assigned readings and class discussions. These will be handed in at specified dates over the course of the semester.

One of the papers may cover a work viewed in class. The other must analyze a work of art housed in a museum or collection not visited on a class study visit. Students should thus plan to visit an institution with a relevant work not included on the list of study visits either in Paris or elsewhere in France or Europe.

Assignments must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Midterm Exam and Final Exam
The midterm and final exams aim at evaluating the students' understanding of the readings and class discussions as well as the students' development of their own critical thinking. The midterm exam will cover the material read and discussed in class up to the date of the exam, but the final exam will be comprehensive and will cover all course contents. Both exams will consist of concept definition, artwork identification and analysis, and/or short essay-type questions, which will require students to demonstrate their knowledge of specific terms, concepts, and works of art, and to compose their ideas in one or more paragraphs addressing specific topics related to course contents.

Individual Research Paper
Students will write and present an original individual research paper about a relevant topic within the scope of the course using scholarly sources (journal articles, book chapters, video documentaries, photographs, etc.) as well as other pertinent sources such as newspapers, blog entries, or social media contributions. The topic will need to be pre-approved by the professor, so students will submit a paper proposal on the date of the Midterm Exam.

Essays will be 10-12 pages long and will include an introduction, main body, and conclusion. Essays must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Class Participation and Attendance
Attendance and active participation are required. Students are expected to do the readings assigned for each class meeting beforehand, and to actively participate in class discussions.

ASSESSMENT AND GRADING CRITERIA
The course will be graded on a 100-point scale, and the final grade will be determined as follows:

- Participation 15%

“FOOD FOR THOUGHT”: POLITICS OF FOOD AND ENVIRONMENT IN FRANCE
ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE, EUROPEAN STUDIES, POLITICAL SCIENCE 127
Instructor: Ruchi Anand, Ph.D.

COURSE DESCRIPTION
There is a good reason why France was showcased at the Paris Climate Change Summit in 2015. According to the 2016 Food and Nutrition Sustainability Index (FSI) published by the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU), France is a pioneer country ranking first amongst 25 countries. France scores highest on policy and governmental action including its quality of response to food losses, tackling distribution-level loss, management of water supplies, climate change mitigation, and unhealthy eating habits. Growing public concern on the issue of food wastage recently led to the ‘Supermarket Law’, making France the first country in the world to penalize supermarkets that throw away edible products to end food waste. As global population rises at the same time as food consumption, it is crucial to understand how problems of food and the environment occur at all stages of the production and supply chains. Environmental concerns linked with food are not unique to France, a nation of gourmets and haute cuisine, but France can serve as a case study to interrogate the complexities of environmental politics and controversies. This course aims to introduce students to the politics and controversies of environmental issues in France and their inter-connections with food and similar politics at the EU and UN levels. In doing so, it will explore some pressing environmental issues facing the country such as GMO politics, food wastage, air pollution, water pollution, species extinction, environmental justice, trade, climate change and the impact of chemicals on health to name a few. It will critically assess the nature of problems encountered; and discuss workable solutions for sustainable development in order to avoid a “tragedy of the commons.”

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES
- Gain an understanding of the links between food and the environment at the production, consumption and distribution stages.
- Gain an understanding of the intertwined nature of food choices with environmental, social, political, ethical and economic issues.
- Gain an awareness of the inter-connectedness between issues in France and food politics at the EU and UN levels.
- Acquire knowledge of the main actors in the food and environment nexus – people, states, farmers, multinational corporations, NGOs etc., as well as of the key literature in the discipline.
- Acquire the ability to locate their area of interest within the discipline, to analyze practices of world food politics from a conceptual perspective, and their drive to find sustainable solutions to the problems raised.
- Develop skills to critically analyze French environmental law, policy and politics relating to food.
- Develop oral, written and research skills to critically assess a significant amount of complex (and at times contradictory) material.
- Develop skills to compile data and research materials on a subject, as well as memo and report writing.
- Develop skills to create and perform formal oral presentations, as well as to accept criticism.

PREREQUISITES
There are no prerequisites for this course.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
Lectures
Class meetings will last 1.5 hours per session. Class time will be divided between lectures and group discussions in which active student participation is required. Students are expected to read the material assigned for each class and be prepared to discuss the material.

Class Participation
Attendance and active participation are required. Students are expected to do the readings assigned for each class meeting beforehand, and to actively participate in class discussions.

There is a list of study questions attached to every week. Students should come prepared to class to answer questions in relation to the study questions. Both discussion and comments in class are crucial to students’ success in this course.

Discussion Leading
Each student is expected to lead discussion on 1 day of class. Discussion leading implies introducing the subject of the day and giving a list of key arguments from the readings. Students are expected to discussion lead for at least 10 minutes of the class session with some critical evaluation.

Written Assessment – Research Paper
Critical thought and analytical writing are fundamental components of the course and the final grade. Students will submit a research paper (details to be discussed in class) on a topic of Food and France to be chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor. Students must decide their topics by mid-semester. The research paper (8-10 pages) is due on the last day of class. In-class oral presentations of the research paper will be held during the last class sessions before the final exam.

Essays will be 8-10 pages long and will include a title, introduction, main body, and conclusion. Essays must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Oral Assessment – Presentations
The oral presentation is based on the students’ research paper. Students will be graded on the clarity, accuracy, and the depth of research of the oral presentation, as well as the ability to answer questions. Presentations should be no more than 20 minutes.

Midterm Exam and Final Exam
The midterm and final exams aim at evaluating students’ knowledge base, their ability to apply their analytical skills to discussions surrounding the theories and issues of the environmental politics of food, and their ability to appreciate and discuss these various issues through environmental, social, political, ethical and economic lenses, as well as the actors in the food and environment nexus. Both the midterm and final exams will cover the material read and discussed in class up to the date of the exam. The exams will be comprised of both short answer and essay questions. Students will be required to compose their ideas in essay form and in a manner that addresses the topic as it relates to course content.

ASSESSMENT AND GRADING CRITERIA
The course will be graded on a 100-point scale, and the final grade will be determined as follows:

- Class Participation: 15%

- Outline of Research Paper: 5%
- Research Paper: 15%
- Midterm Exam: 20%
- Final Exam: 25%

The numerical average will correspond to the following degrees of competence:

- 90 – 100: Outstanding degree of competence
- 80 – 89: Good degree of competence
- 70 – 79: Adequate degree of competence
- 60 – 69: Basic degree of competence
- 0 – 59: Failure to demonstrate a basic degree of competence
UNBOUND BOUNDARIES: THE IDEA OF EUROPE AND EUROPEAN INTEGRATION

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Over the past 200 years, the destiny of Europe has witnessed spectacular ups and downs. Once an imperial power controlling some 1/3 of the planet, the Europe of 1945 shrank in stature and in strength. At pains with its own reconstruction, it also had to renounce control of its colonial empire. The Cold War, following the Second World War, divided Europe into two hostile camps thus adding to its insecurity and humiliation.

Europe's upheavals in the twentieth century however gave birth to a new vision; a vision that became sensitive to the dangers of ethno-nationalism and over-protective economies and strove to surpass national boundaries. The shattering experience of two world wars that tore Europe apart, gave birth to 'an ever-closer union between the peoples of Europe', in other words, the European Union. Since the fall of the Berlin Wall and the end of the bipolar world, this relatively young institution has come to play a continuously greater role in world affairs. Consequently, it has undergone numerous important changes in a short period of time. Today the European Union brings together 28 (soon to be 27) nations and 500 million people.

France's role in the initial creation and the subsequent evolution of this union has been far from minimal. The very idea of unity was announced in a speech by Jean Monnet, a member of the French Committee of National Liberation, back in 1943. The Plan that led to the creation of the European Coal and Steel Community, the forerunner of the European Economic Community, which eventually became the European Union was named after France's foreign minister, Robert Schuman. It was under the presidency of a Frenchman, Jacques Delors, that the European Union launched the common currency, the Euro. Though significant, France's contributions have however not always been constructive. On many occasions France has been accused of putting her national interests before those of Europe. Their general stance can be summed in President Mitterrand's ambiguous phrase: 'France is our homeland, but Europe is our future'. Furthermore, the 2017 presidential elections in France showed a divided France on the question of the European Union with an ever-increasing electorate that expressed more sovereigntist than Europeanist views.

The aim of this class is to provide a general introduction to the history, the structure and the current developments of the European Union, with a specific focus on France. We shall start first with a historical examination of the reasons that led to the creation of the union, we will then turn to its evolution over the years and finally look at the recent events and discuss what lies ahead in the future for the European Union.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Gain an understanding of the history, the structure and the current developments of the European Union, as well as its institutions and functionaries, with a specific focus on France.
- Students will be provided with the theoretical tools needed to understand the complex issues and institutions involved in European integration from its inception to its present-day configuration and role in world affairs.
- Develop skills to locate European construction within the existing theories of integration.
- Gain an awareness of the history behind this project: how belligerent countries came to end their discord and form a union.
- Follow the workings of this institution on a day-to-day basis and grasp its importance as an economic and political actor in Europe and the world.
- Develop written and oral analytical skills as well as increase knowledge base on the topic.

PREREQUISITES

There are no prerequisites for this course.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
Lectures & Site Visits
Class meetings will last 1.5 hours per session. Class time will be divided between lectures and group discussions in which active student participation is required. Students are expected to read the material assigned for each class and be prepared to discuss the material.

In addition, students will meet for periodic site visits:
- Optional trip to Brussels

Class Participation
Attendance and active participation are required. Students are expected to do the readings assigned for each class meeting beforehand, and to actively participate in class discussions.

There is a list of study questions attached to every week. Also some weeks, students will receive newspaper articles related to the EU to read. Students should come prepared to class to comment on those websites and answer questions in relation to the study questions.

Oral Assessment – Group Presentations
Class will break up into groups. Each group will be asked to prepare a presentation on a policy, a decision, a discussion or an event in the European Union. Students will be graded on the clarity, accuracy, the depth of research of the oral presentation as well as the ability to answer questions. The group will be graded together. Presentations should be no more than 20 minutes.

Oral Assessment – Political Party Presentation
Class will break up into 8 groups. Each group will represent one of the European Political Groups and come to class representing their position. Students will be graded on the clarity and accuracy of their presentations. The group will be graded together. Presentations should be no more than 10 minutes

Written Assessment – Quiz
The quiz aims at evaluating students’ knowledge base and will be comprised of short answer questions.

Written Assessment – Research Paper
Critical thought and analytical writing are fundamental components of the course and the final grade. The research paper is based on the oral presentation. Students will compose a 6-8 page research paper, in which the oral presentation topic is developed.

Essays will be 6-8 pages long and will include a title, introduction, main body, and conclusion. Essays must be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman (12pt), and 2.5cm/1-inch margins on all four sides. The essay will be submitted in class on the date specified on the course schedule. No late submissions will be accepted.

Midterm Exam and Final Exam
The midterm and final exams aim at evaluating students’ knowledge base, their ability to apply their analytical skills to discussions surrounding the theory and history of European integration, and their ability to appreciate and discuss the present-day effects of this organization on European and world affairs. Both the midterm and final exams will cover the material read and discussed in class up to the date of the exam. The exams will be comprised of both short answer and essay questions. Students will be required to compose their ideas in essay form and in a manner that addresses the topic as it relates to course content.

ASSESSMENT AND GRADING CRITERIA

The course will be graded on a 100-point scale, and the final grade will be determined as follows:

- Class Participation 15%
- Oral Group Presentation 10%
- Political Party Presentation 5%
- Research Paper 15%
- Quiz 10%
- Midterm Exam 20%
- Final Exam 25%

The numerical average will correspond to the following degrees of competence:

- 90 – 100 Outstanding degree of competence
- 80 – 89 Good degree of competence
- 70 – 79 Adequate degree of competence
- 60 – 69 Basic degree of competence
- 0 – 59 Failure to demonstrate a basic degree of competence
