

This is not an exhaustive listing of subject areas and course opportunities at a particular host institution. We recommend you check each host university's study abroad course page to see what is available to you as it changes year to year. In addition, refer to the UCEAP course catalog to see which courses UC students have taken in the past. Keep in mind that there may be courses that cover a particular subject but are based in a different department (e.g. Women's Studies classes in Sociology).

Irish second-year courses are usually considered "equivalent" to the junior year at a US university. This is important as some host universities have restrictions regarding the level of courses available to study abroad students.

- There are no major restrictions at any of the Irish Universities other than those highlighted below. If you are interested in taking "Honours" level courses, you may be required to have at least 2 years of study in a specific subject area. Please check with the partner institution you are applying to for further details.

Below is an overview of subject areas available at each host institution. This list may change as host university policies change. The information in the overview table is still subject to the restrictions found later in this guide. Therefore, we strongly recommend you review subject offerings for each university in conjunction with the restrictions for that university.
