

Students in the Complutense Year, Spring, and Carlos III Spring programs travel to the North where they visit the Spanish side of a region that stretches across two neighboring countries. The excursion to the Basque Country is a unique opportunity for students to hear an unfamiliar language, feel the sea spray from the waves in the Bay of Biscay, and view the rolling hills that lead up to the Pyrenees Mountains.

Madrid is home to several universities, including the modern Carlos III Univ. and the historic Complutense Univ. established in 1499. UCEAP Students participate in local activities and visit museums around Madrid to experience the lifestyle and culture of this capital city.

In the Fall, Madrid students venture to the South where they will meet up with their UCEAP peers studying in the historical cities of Cordoba and Granada. Students will observe the African influence in the architecture of the Andalusian region, experience the Southern hospitality of Spain, and take in all the beauty that this corner of Spain has to offer.
