Form 1: ACCENT/Student Responsibility Contract

I hereby agree to the conditions in this Contract for the University of California Program and confirm that I have a genuine interest in the educational and cultural opportunities offered. Accordingly,

1. I have read ACCENT's policies concerning alcohol use, student housing and other applicable policies within ACCENT's Enrollment Forms. I have also read ACCENT's policies concerning harassment and drug/substance abuse. Copies of these policies are found at (www.accentintl.com/policies). I understand all of these policies and agree to faithfully fulfill all of these requirements, terms, and conditions.
2. I understand that my sponsoring College/University is ultimately responsible for the program's educational content, its duration, modifications, and/or cancellations, and supervising and disciplining students and faculty. I hereby agree that in the unlikely, but possible event of an infectious disease threat, that I shall follow the directions of my sponsoring school and comply with relocation and mitigation directives, whether these are delivered by local government authorities, my school, or indirectly through ACCENT. I understand that my failure to do so may result in my expulsion from the program without any refund or recourse. I understand that this program is deemed to commence on the contracted arrival date, and to terminate on the contracted departure date from Europe as specified in the program materials.
3. I agree that ACCENT reserves the discretion to reasonably modify my program schedule for logistical and service purposes, including without limitation, to conform to schedules of host country institutions, to conform to schedules of transportation companies and other service providers, to consolidate programs for viability purposes, etc. Such modifications shall be deemed to be standard conditions of my program, and shall not be grounds for withdrawal from the program or for any refund or credit.
4. I acknowledge that foreign travel, and living in international cities that are hundreds or thousands of years old, is an adventure which exposes me to risks, living conditions, inconveniences and standards that I do not normally encounter at home, and I hereby assume those risks as an adult. I accept that I will have to tolerate foreign customs, habits, noise, traffic, foods, cultural practices, laws, police requirements, living conditions, amenities such as internet, air conditioning and heat, elevators, transportation schedules, etc., which are more onerous and less convenient than those I am used to at home. When I encounter such conditions that I may not like, I accept that I am responsible for resolving problems concerning them in mature and constructive ways and I realize that I may be required to accommodate myself to them as part of my experience of living in a foreign country. I also understand that it is my responsibility to promptly inform ACCENT's local Study Center Director in writing if I encounter conditions that I believe should be remedied pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Contract. An email to the ACCENT Study Center Director is sufficient.
5. I understand that while unlikely, there is always a risk that I could become ill, or injured, or incapacitated during my activities abroad. Should I voluntarily choose to engage in athletics, tournaments, or sports, I acknowledge that, as an adult, I assume all such risks and I do not expect ACCENT to function in loco parentis. Likewise, I also understand that I could become involved with a foreign country's police or government authorities, and need legal assistance. Accordingly, I hereby authorize ACCENT, in its reasonable discretion, to take emergency action on my behalf, without limitation, to obtain medical care, hospitalization, legal or other assistance for me at my sole cost.
6. I agree to abide by the applicable laws of my host country, and I understand that I am solely responsible for the consequences and costs, legal and otherwise, that result should I become involved in any civil dispute or criminal matter under applicable laws.
7. I understand that it is illegal under British, French, and American criminal and civil laws for me to upload or download copyrighted materials, including peer file sharing, without the express permission of the copyright owner. If I do download and/or distribute copyrighted materials without such permission, I understand that I will also be violating ACCENT's, and my own College/University's policies. Accordingly, I acknowledge that such misconduct on my part will subject me to severe legal penalties which can include fines of thousands of dollars, and expulsion from my overseas program and housing without recourse or refund.
8. I agree that I must conduct myself according to the policies and standards of my sponsoring academic institution, and those of ACCENT, and I agree to cooperate with representatives of the sponsoring institution, ACCENT staff, and my fellow participants for our mutual benefit. I understand that misconduct by me, including but not limited to, possession or use of prohibited substances or drugs, misuse of alcohol, violation of the sponsoring school's strict attendance requirements, and student conduct codes, violence, destruction of property, offensive public behavior, behavior which endangers others or myself, or violation of other policies is likely to result in my expulsion from the program without refund of fees, or recourse, and my return home will be at my expense.

WARNING: THIS IS A 2-PAGE DOCUMENT AND BOTH PAGES MUST BE RETURNED TOGETHER.

9. I understand that my friends and relatives are not entitled or permitted to attend any portion of the program or utilize my residence or any ACCENT facilities which are reserved exclusively for officially enrolled participants who have paid applicable fees.
10. I agree that neither ACCENT, nor its employees, nor its representatives shall be liable to me, directly or indirectly, for consequences beyond ACCENT's reasonable direct control, including without limitation, Acts of God, criminal acts such as theft, war, terrorism, strikes or other labor actions, acts of government authorities, acts by persons who are not employees of ACCENT, pandemics or epidemics or other health threats, acts by employees of transportation companies, and others.
11. I understand that ACCENT urges me to protect my personal property, valuables, and other property for which I am responsible by purchasing commercial insurance. Whether I insure or not, I agree that ACCENT shall not be liable for any losses of or damage to my personal property, valuables, and other property, and that I alone shall be responsible for any losses which might occur whether through theft, damage, or otherwise. Furthermore, I acknowledge that I am personally responsible for all costs relating to my medical care, relocation, and/or the costs of alternative accommodations in case of contagion, infestation, injury, other emergency, or other conditions not directly caused by negligent or deliberate acts of ACCENT or its employees. I understand that my failure to protect myself with insurance does not change my responsibility for such costs should they occur.
12. I agree that this Contract is between me and ACCENT as the sole parties thereto, that my parents or guardians are not parties to this Contract, (I have so informed them and they agree) because I am 18 years of age or older, I have independent rights of privacy and that this legal relationship is controlling irrespective of who might be paying all or part of my costs to ACCENT. Nevertheless, I understand that ACCENT reserves the right to discuss and transact business concerning my account directly with my parents, guardians, and others who may be paying for all or part of my costs arising in connection with this Contract.
13. I understand that ACCENT endeavors to respect each student's privacy. Accordingly, I am responsible for informing my family members, friends, and others wishing to contact me of the particulars of my contact information including my address, telephone number and other such information. However, ACCENT will reasonably relay to me a request from someone wishing to contact me, and upon being so informed, I may then decide whether to contact that person or not. I also understand that ACCENT reserves the right, in circumstances that it deems to be business necessity, emergency, or health or safety matters, to communicate directly with others regarding my role and activities in connection with the Program, including without limitation, the sponsoring institution, and the foreign host institution(s).
14. ACCENT programs are, by their nature, of public interest as they usually involve students, faculty, or resource people engaged in educational programs and various student activities. Students, faculty, school representatives, ACCENT, and others are usually free to take photographs of ACCENT-related program activities, fellow students, faculty, and ACCENT personnel, and to use such photos for lawful purposes. All concerned are hereby reminded that they shall have no claim to the photos taken by others, nor any expectation of privacy or confidentiality in such photos.
15. I understand that any questions about Program fees, payments or refunds must be addressed to my sponsoring academic institution, which solely determines the amounts of all fees, payment and refunds. I understand that if I leave the Program early, I will receive no refund from ACCENT. I further understand that if I withdraw from the Program, I shall not be entitled to participate in any Program activities, and I must immediately vacate Program housing.
16. I understand that this Contract shall not become effective until receipt signed by ACCENT, and that it shall be interpreted and governed by the laws of California, with venue in the County of San Francisco, the location of ACCENT's U.S. office.
17. I understand that fulfillment of my above commitments is a requirement for me to remain eligible to participate throughout this Program, and in order to receive the benefits of ACCENT's services. I agree to comply with all of them, and I understand that should I fail to do so, it shall be considered to be a material breach of this Contract which then may be terminated without refund or recourse.

Form 2: Alcohol Agreement

REGARDING STUDENT'S FULL PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY AND ASSUMPTION OF ALL RISKS FOR ANY AND ALL ALCOHOL USE OR CONSUMPTION AND ABSOLUTE RELEASE OF ACCENT AND WAIVER OF ACCENT LIABILITY, AGREEING TO HOLD HARMLESS, DEFEND AND INDEMNIFY ACCENT.

1. ACCENT programs are located in foreign countries which have laws prohibiting, controlling, and regulating uses and consumption of alcoholic drinks including wine, beer and liquor, especially by minors.
2. Each University or College sponsoring an ACCENT program may have its own prohibitions and restrictions which it requires to be applied to the use and consumption of alcohol by its students enrolled in ACCENT programs in foreign countries.
3. Accordingly, each ACCENT student is individually and personally responsible for complying with all legal requirements of the nation where they are located, the rules and regulations of his/her sponsoring University or College and ACCENT's requirements as described in this Agreement and otherwise.
4. Any and all consumption or usage of alcohol by an ACCENT student is wholly the student's own personal responsibility. Each student is responsible to inform himself or herself of the country's laws, his/her University's or College's rules, and ACCENT rules before using or consuming alcoholic beverages. Legally underage students are absolutely prohibited from consuming alcohol, and may be expelled from an ACCENT program without recourse or refund if they violate this rule.
5. ACCENT does not act in loco parentis, and a student's full responsibility for complying with alcohol consumption rules is not reduced in any way whatsoever whether or not ACCENT may, or may not act as an alcohol "policeman." Warning: the most severe consequences may be applied by ACCENT to any violation of applicable rules, whether or not such rules were previously enforced, and irrespective of how they were previously enforced.
6. Consequences for prohibited uses or abuses of alcohol, at ACCENT's sole discretion, include without limitation: temporary suspension, probation, immediate dismissal from an ACCENT program, and eviction from residence facilities, without recourse or refund.
7. ACCENT acknowledges that the cultures of host countries, including England, France, Spain, Italy and Turkey may promote or prohibit the consumption of alcohol from time to time: whether wine, beer, liquor or other beverages. When ACCENT deems it to be appropriate, ACCENT may provide occasional social or program access to alcoholic beverages on a strictly optional basis. On such occasions each student remains wholly and individually responsible for complying with applicable rules irrespective of usage by others, and no student is required to or expected to consume alcohol.
8. ACCENT's good standing, acceptance, and reputation in its host country is adversely affected if and when ACCENT students are arrested or otherwise involved in civil or criminal proceedings where alcohol use is implicated. ACCENT reserves full discretion to prohibit the use of alcohol by specific students, and/or all students, or to establish conditions for such use or consumption while enrolled in an ACCENT program, whether such use is on ACCENT-sponsored premises or otherwise.
9. As an ACCENT student I understand and agree that ACCENT will not assume any responsibility whatsoever should I, or another student, choose to consume alcohol, and I understand that alcohol is a drug which can cause serious health consequences and unacceptable behavioral manifestations which could lead to expulsion from my program and residence without any refund.
10. In consideration for my being permitted to be enrolled in an ACCENT program, I hereby accept all the above conditions, and I agree to conform to all applicable rules and regulations. I understand that even one violation of such rules and regulations may result in my immediate dismissal from ACCENT programs without refund or recourse, or other severe penalties, at ACCENT's sole discretion.
11. I understand and agree that ACCENT's policies apply to me whether I consume alcohol on or off ACCENT premises, so long as I am enrolled in an ACCENT program. I understand that these policies include rules that may prohibit consumption of alcohol in the student residences.
12. I hereby agree to hold harmless, indemnify and defend ACCENT, its employees, agents, and representatives from any claims, costs including attorneys' fees, actions, arbitrations, lawsuits, and otherwise, arising out of or in connection with use or consumption of alcohol by me while I am a participant in an ACCENT program and/or utilizing facilities provided by ACCENT.
13. I understand that I have a right to consult with my own attorney before signing this document which I agree shall be construed to be a General Release and Waiver of all rights and claims: past, present, and future, against ACCENT, its employees, agents, representatives, contractors, successors, and assigns, directly or indirectly relating to the use or consumption of alcohol by me.
14. I further understand that I shall not be entitled to participate in any ACCENT program unless I agree to this agreement.

ACCENT will keep students informed of progress in resolving maintenance problems.

LIABILITY

- 18. Each student is solely responsible for the security and safe-keeping of his/her personal property, valuables, and other property for which student is responsible. Neither the owner of the housing units nor ACCENT shall be in any respect liable for losses of a student's personal property, valuables, and other property for which student is responsible. ACCENT strongly advises students to obtain commercial insurance to protect themselves, their valuables, and property for which they are legally responsible while overseas. Student hereby acknowledges that he/she is solely responsible for any and all such property losses whether or not he/she obtains sufficient private insurance. Student is also solely responsible for determining limitations and inclusions of coverage under any insurance policy.
- 19. Students' personal safety and health are a primary concern of ACCENT. Accordingly, students are expected to be observant of conditions in the residence that they suspect may pose undue risks of fire (such as non-functioning smoke alarms), or other risks to health or safety. Please report the details immediately in writing to the ACCENT Study Center Director so he/she may take prompt remedial action.
- 20. Form 7: Course Selections (1 of 2)

Perspectives on the Global City: UC Centers London and Paris

Please indicate your course preferences by ranking the options below and completely fill out the form. Course selection forms that are not ranked are considered incomplete. Please note that ranking these courses does not guarantee preferred placement.

You will take two courses at each location, resulting in four courses total for the entire program. Each course is 4 units. You also have the option of adding on a 2-unit Directed Group Study after arrival in the second city.

Course Selection London:

Please rank the courses below according to your preference with 1, 2, or 3 (1 being your first choice).

- a. ___ Policing London: Policy, Law and the Police in the Global City. This course explores the relationship between the police, the judicial system and policy makers in London. Students will learn the history of the police force in the UK and the developments that have formed the Metropolitan Police in London today. Topics covered will include: corruption, race relations, policing major demonstrations and riots, and the impact of government policy on policing. Students will explore the politics behind decisions and the framework of the law. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: History/Political Science/Urban Studies
- b. ___ After the Empire: Diversity and Integration in Britain. Britain is a country shaped by its encounter with the rest of the world. The questions that test us today are over multi-culturalism, how much government we want, diversity, tolerance and its limits. Those are questions that arise out of Britain's relation to its former Empire. In the last century Britain withdrew from Empire, under pressure from anti-Colonial movements and the United Nations. Once the 'workshop of the world' in the nineteenth century, when the Empire covered so much territory that the sun never set upon it, Britain in the twentieth century struggled to find a role in the post-colonial world. The country that sent so many of its citizens out to colonize America and Australia, and to rule over India and Africa, received millions of migrants from its former colonies in the latter half of the twentieth century. The British identity that was formed through domination gave way to an identity based upon a rich racial and cultural diversity – but not without problems and conflicts. This course examines Britain's post-colonial make-up by examining the many strands that make up Britain today, focusing on the capital London. Through talks and visits students will look at the many strands that make up the world city that is London. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: History/Political Science/Sociology
- c. ___ Health, Urbanism and Social Change: London, 1850 to the present day. The aim of this course is to explore questions of health and disease as they relate to London, from the mid-nineteenth century through to the present day. It will cover issues as diverse as the cholera epidemics of the early 1800s and the public health response to them, the late-nineteenth century push by sanitary scientists for urban green spaces as a means to promote health amongst the urban poor, and the more contemporary issues of poverty and health inequality, resurgent tuberculosis and the so-called obesity epidemic. While diverse in thematic focus, the course will argue that a shared concern runs through each of the themes covered: namely a recognition that the environment plays a crucial role in shaping people's life chances. By the end of the course, you will recognize how influential place-based thinking has been, and continues to be, to public health responses to health and disease in the city. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: Geography/Political Science/Urban Studies

Course Selection Paris:

Please rank the courses below according to your preference with 1, 2, or 3 (1 being your first choice).

- a. ___ Differing Diversities: The Politics of Belonging in France. France's history with social and ethnic diversity is very different from that of the United States, even though the revolutions that founded the two republics are separated by no more than thirteen years and were nourished by the same Enlightenment philosophical tradition. If the United States thinks of itself as a multicultural "melting pot," France has a tendency to think of itself as a revolutionary nation. Both of these images of how one belongs to either nation have a grain of truth, but both are also far from encompassing the fully problematic sense of belonging to either country. This interdisciplinary course will explore how diversity has (and has not) been articulated in France's political traditions and how these traditions inform contemporary social situations. Articles in political theory and sociology will help students gain an idea of the ways social scientists studying France have articulated the relations between nation, citizenship, and cosmopolitanism. Literary accounts will serve as an experiential lens to help us understand the concrete implications of these notions. This course seeks to give students a fuller idea of the complexity of belonging in France. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: Sociology/Comparative Literature/Political Science

- b. ___ (Un)veiling the Republic: France in the Muslim World and the Muslim World in France. While Charles Martel is said to have heroically “saved” France from invading Muslims in 732, today, France has the highest percentage of Muslims in Europe. This interdisciplinary course draws from the fields of history, political science, sociology, and international studies to examine the fraught relations between France and the Muslim world over the centuries. The class will be broken up into two sections. In the first section, it will look at France’s historical presence in the Arab world and the consequent Muslim presence in France. In the second section, it will focus on French society today and evaluate the socio-political integration process of French Muslims. Topics covered include colonization and decolonization, Islamic heritage and its clash with the French secularizing mission, and political policies on Muslims in France such as the heated issue over the veil. Students will investigate these topics from a variety of sources, ranging from historical documents and cultural criticism to journalistic and cinematic expressions. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: History/Political Science/Sociology
- c. ___ Documenting the Periphery: Identity and Citizenship in the “Other” Part of Paris. This interdisciplinary course will examine the socioeconomic and political disenfranchisement experienced by residents of the “other France” – a France comprised of working-class citizens often of immigrant origin and from France’s former colonies. It will introduce students to urban sociology by requiring that they focus on the particular problems experienced by social actors who live in economically and socially disfavored parts of Paris. Topics covered include urban sociological theories, de-facto segregation, poverty, crime, schooling, public policy, national identity, the negotiation of bi-culturality, and the French secularizing mission. Students will investigate these topics from a variety of sources, ranging from documentary film and photojournalism to literary and cinematic expressions. Via these sources, they will become familiar with a vibrant urban “vernacular” culture that contests issues pertaining to citizenship, racialization and representation. 4.0 credits. Suggested subject areas for this course: Urban Studies/Sociology/Comparative Literature

I hereby certify the above ranked courses represent my course selection preferences. I understand that preferences are subject to availability and that ACCENT is not able to guarantee preferred placement.
