Strategic Plan Overview

Introduction

The Mission of the University of California Education Abroad Program (UCEAP) is to equip UC students with the knowledge, understanding, and skills to work and live in a globally interdependent and culturally diverse world. Our research shows that participants cite UCEAP as a capstone program of their undergraduate education – and an experience that, for many, guides their future academic, career, and life paths.

Our vision is one of study abroad for all, academic excellence and best business practices. Students of all backgrounds should benefit from a study abroad experience, including those who may not have historically participated in UCEAP such as low-income or first generation students, transfer students, or Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) majors.

UC's Global Campus for Over 50 Years

UCEAP was established by the UC Regents at the UC Santa Barbara campus in 1962 as a systemwide UC study abroad program for undergraduate students. UCEAP also operates a reciprocal exchange program that brings students from around the world to study at UC campuses. Since its inception in 1962, UCEAP has successfully sent +100,000 UC students abroad and hosted over 25,000 exchange students at the UC campuses. In the academic year 2014-15, 5,275 UC students studied abroad on UCEAP with 1,553 international students on exchange at UC campuses. UCEAP now has expanded its offerings to some 43 countries with over 115 top-ranked partner institutions.

Since 2012, UCEAP has been administratively housed at the University of California, Santa Barbara with shared governance between the UC Office of the President and the UC Academic Senate. The current administrative staff and faculty include approximately 80 FTE at the Systemwide Office in Goleta, 45 FTE at study centers abroad, 8 visiting professors, and 7 study center directors (UC faculty).

Each year, returning UCEAP participants along with reciprocal exchange students (from UCEAP partner institutions) bring a critical international perspective to the UC campuses, often forming lifelong connections with the Program and University. Today, the demographic changes in California and our increasingly globalized economy continue to make the international perspectives provided by UCEAP that much more valuable to the academic, economic, and cultural vitality of California and its citizens.

A study of students who enter UC as freshman showed that UCEAP participants graduate faster than UC students who do not study abroad. Transfer students also graduate at the same rate, regardless of their UCEAP participation. Furthermore, UC institutions enjoy a higher retention rate for these students. With the current economic reality of Californian families, the key challenges of cost and academic credit remain as perceived barriers to participation, and we continue to encourage both the academic and financial planning that is critical for successful study abroad participation and re-entry at the University.

Education for Today's Global Market

In addition to providing students with an international academic program, UCEAP prepares them for academic and professional work in today's global economy. UCEAP supports UC's mission to provide high-quality research and education for California's community and to groom future-oriented leaders, entrepreneurs, and researchers through academic instruction and global exchange relationships.

We work with partners across the 10 UC campuses to provide the highest level of support, preparation, and academic advice to all students. Faculty from throughout UC play a key role in UCEAP, helping shape and develop programs, ensuring academic excellence and quality through their oversight, and serving overseas as Study Center Directors and Visiting Professors.

Partnering with campuses remains central to UCEAP's success, and remains engaged with its various and diverse partners in the quest to find the right working balance between campuses and centralized operations. We continue to provide leadership in efficiency measures and best business practices across the system through continued collaboration and facilitation with our key stakeholders. We remain committed to expanding UC's global reach and leveraging our resources and expertise in ways that cannot be duplicated by any single campus. In fact, the University of California has become a leading institution for study abroad programs; according to the Institute of International Education, 6 UC campuses have consistently ranked amongst the top 20 public institutions in immersion (semester/year) study abroad.

Keeping California Vital

UCEAP is committed to enriching the public education of Californians, and recognizes the need to keep pace with an evolving academic and economic environment. As we grow and develop as a program, we continue to create international partnerships and academic opportunities that will meet the evolving needs of UC students and the demands of the global marketplace. Through study abroad, UCEAP contributes to the success of the individual and our state, preparing the next generation of Californians for successful lives and careers in a rapidly changing world.

Strategic Plan Overview

Our strategic plan has exciting prospects for students, campuses, study centers and systemwide staff. Our priorities remain focused on growing our partnerships while leveraging the collective work and expertise of our staff alongside our campus and international partners. Through continued and enhanced collaboration on these initiatives, students will benefit from the highest level of support, preparation, and academic programming.

UCEAP strives to provide leadership in efficiency and best business practices across UC through continued collaboration and facilitation. After close examination of our operations, we have identified challenges and opportunities for expanding UC's global reach. We have an ambitious plan, but with thoughtful analysis of our priorities, a practical approach to implementation, and careful monitoring of resources and metrics, we are confident in managing an enterprise that is financially sustainable and vital. As we work together to find the right balance and synergies between campuses and centralized operations, we look forward to leveraging joint capabilities to generate optimal returns across the system.

The overarching goals of this strategic plan are:

- Enrollment Growth
- UC Stakeholder Collaboration
- Academic Excellence
- Technology and Enterprise Resource Management

Through the goals above, and in conjunction with the four regional strategic plans prepared by each Regional Director, UCEAP surpassed its 5,000 participants enrollment goal, achieved self-funding financial sustainability, and extended international opportunities to all UC students. This growth represents a 12.3% increase from the 2013-14 enrollment of 4,624.

For 2015-16, UCEAP has committed to allocate $1.5 million to scholarships and $500,000 to the strategic initiatives outlined in this plan. We remain grateful for your partnership throughout this journey and invite your leadership, creativity, and expertise in advancing our joint mission to expand UC's global reach.
