Participation in the UCEAP Taiwan Program requires the completion of both a UCEAP Health Clearance and the NTU Health Exam. Coordinate the completion of the NTU and EAP health forms during the same visit to your healthcare professional. Depending on your health insurance, EAP students report that this requirement can be costly.

The UCEAP Health Clearance must be submitted to UCEAP prior to departure. The NTU Health Exam must be submitted to NTU Office of International Affairs.

NTU suggests both year and semester students should do their health exam within 3 months of arrival.

You have the option of completing the NTU Health exam before or after arrival in Taiwan. Please note that this exam cannot be covered by your UCEAP insurance. There are two windows in which you can complete and submit your NTU Health Exam Form. Regardless of which timeframe you choose to submit it within, your health exam form must be completed within three months of the submission date. If you plan on uploading your NTU health exam form with your online application, then you must complete your exam in January/February/March for fall or August/September/October for spring. If you will submit your NTU health exam form upon arrival in Taiwan, then you must complete it between June and September for fall and December and February for spring.

For more information, refer to NTU’s website for their Health Form Instructions and Policy.

Step 3- Attach one (1) passport-size photograph in the indicated box.

Step 4- Scan the completed NTU Health Exam Form and medical test results and upload them directly to the NTU online application system. For visa purposes, all fall or spring term students submit the NTU Health Exam form to NTU.

Year students must apply for a visitor visa in the US and then change it to a resident visa after arrival in Taiwan. At that time they will need to present a Health Certificate to local immigration. This can be done in Taiwan or at your UCEAP Health Clearance appointment.
